Looking Ahead: PEF’s Next Chapter	32

Message from the Chairperson

25 Years of Partnership, Purpose, and Promise

The year 2025 signals a pivotal moment for Peace and Equity Foundation, as it marks 25 years of Partnerships for Every Family. This silver anniversary is not only a milestone to celebrate, but an invitation to reflect, recalibrate, and renew our commitment for the years ahead.

PEF was founded on a bold vision: to ensure sustained, meaningful contributions to poor and marginalized communities. That vision remains as urgent today as ever, as our context has grown more complex, marked by polarization, persistent poverty, inequality, climate vulnerability, and fragile public trust. These realities can discourage us, but history reminds us that civil society has always risen in times of uncertainty.

As a critical sector, we have strengthened civic participation, advanced social justice and accountability, and helped build institutions grounded in transparency, moral courage, and integrity. Institutions like PEF exist precisely for moments like these.

Our anniversary challenges us to ask difficult but necessary questions:

Where are we headed in the next 25 years?

How do we remain faithful to our mission amid growing complexity?

How do we ensure our work continues to matter to those who need it most?

Our response must be anchored in our values: service orientation, innovation, participation, accountability, and transparency. These are not abstract ideals, but operational commitments that guide our partnerships, resource allocation, community engagement, and governance.

PEF has consistently worked alongside the poorest, reaching far-flung communities, strengthening local enterprises, and building partnerships that enable sustainable transformation. At this 25-year mark, we are called not only to sustain what works, but to sharpen our strategic focus: deepening partnerships, investing in leadership continuity, strengthening inclusive innovation, and continuing our role as a convenor for dialogue and collective problem-solving.

Throughout the anniversary year, we will reflect on how development organizations can remain relevant, responsive, and resilient.

Let us continue building partnerships that uplift families, strengthen communities, and demonstrate that principled leadership in civil society is not only possible, but indispensable.

Most Rev. Antonio J. Ledesma, S.J., D.D.

Message from the Executive Director

As the Peace and Equity Foundation approaches its 25th year, we reflect on the partnerships that have shaped our work and enabled us to pursue meaningful development impact across communities.

In 2025, PEF advanced initiatives that support community enterprises, improve livelihoods, and foster collaboration among civil society organizations, government agencies, academic institutions, and development partners. These efforts demonstrate the value of working together to address complex development challenges and expand opportunities for communities.

As we celebrate Partnerships for Every Family, we remain committed to working with partners and communities to advance inclusive and sustainable development. Guided by the lessons of the past twenty-five years, we look forward to building on these partnerships as we shape the Foundation's next chapter.

Strategic Highlights

- INDUSTRIES: Rice, coconut, coffee, vegetables, abaca, fisheries
- ENTERPRISES: Consolidation, marketing, processing, microfinance
- CAPACITY-BUILDING SUPPORT: Leadership, financial management, business and strategic planning, research/studies
- COLLABORATION: Line Agencies, LGU, Universities, & Private Sector

In 2025, the Foundation continued to grow its impact by improving value chain systems, supporting social enterprises, and fostering collaboration across the development sector.

Across its seven focus areas, PEF worked with partners and communities to boost productivity, improve value chains, and build stronger organizations. The Foundation also broadened its collaboration with government agencies, funding facilities, academic institutions, private sector partners, and development networks to better align resources and support initiatives that can grow and be sustained over time.

These efforts reflect PEF’s continuing role as both a development institution and a learning platform, supporting social enterprises and development initiatives while contributing to broader dialogue on effective and sustainable development practice.

COAST Programme to support fisherfolk empowerment, environmental conservation

Quezon City — The Peace and Equity Foundation and COAST Facility Philippines partnered in the COAST Programme, an initiative aimed at uplifting fisherfolk livelihoods while advancing sustainable resource management across the country.

The COAST Facility, part of the broader Climate and Ocean Adaptation and Sustainable Transition (COAST) Programme, seeks to strengthen climate resilience in vulnerable coastal communities by protecting ecosystems, improving governance, and promoting inclusive and sustainable livelihoods. Funded by the UK Government and led by DAI Global and the UK’s Foreign, Commonwealth and Development Office (FCDO), the Facility supports local stewardship and drives lasting, inclusive change for both people and nature through flexible grants, technical assistance, and national reform support.

PEF, meanwhile, has long supported fisherfolk communities, particularly in Bataan, Quezon, and Zamboanga Sibugay.

The program features two key tracks: Integrated Area Development in Zamboanga Sibugay and the Coastal Community-led Innovation Fund Facility (CCLIFF).

Under the Zamboanga Sibugay Area Development track, the programme aims to empower 4,000 fisherfolk working in Sibuguey Bay. It also seeks to enhance the capacities of fisherfolk organizations operating in the area while expanding oyster and seaweed aquaculture value chains.

The programme will also support the conservation of at least 8,000 hectares of mangroves and partner with other institutions to advocate for policies that protect critical habitats.

Under CCLIFF, catalytic financing will be provided to community-based organizations outside Zamboanga Sibugay. This addresses the lack of accessible and flexible funding for coastal community-led innovations. The facility will enable communities to pilot or scale sustainable livelihoods, conservation practices, and coastal and aquaculture enterprise models, generating lessons for replication in other regions.

Good coffee invigorates an upland sitio

In the northernmost part of Sultan Kudarat lies Lebak, a first-class municipality marked by its expansive coastlines and mountain ranges. Home to 90,000 people (2020 Philippine census), the town's economy depends heavily on farming and fishing.

Despite being classified as such, Lebak still struggles with persistent poverty. With a poverty rate of 35.17%, more than twice the national average of 15.5%, many communities—especially those in upland sitios—still face challenges due to poor roads and limited access to basic services.

One such sitio is Keytodac, a remote, mountainous barangay with a rugged terrain and cool weather. While most residents rely on corn and vegetable farming, coffee planting is transforming the community. And a cooperative fueled by passion to uplift the lives of small-holder farmers is leading this development.

From vision to action

The Keytodac Coffee Growers Inc. (KCGI) was founded in 2008 by more than 40 coffee farmers, aiming to break free from the cycle of debt and dependency on traders who controlled pricing and provided cash advances.

“It was created solely to uplift the lives of marginalized farmers in the area,” said KCGI General Manager Crisanto Pascual.

The group sought support from the government and development institutions for working capital, marketing, and organizational capacity building.

Its breakthrough came in 2016 when they partnered with the PinoyMe Foundation for the Reducing Rural Poverty through Agroenterprise Project, funded by the Gerry Roxas Foundation. The project provided KCGI with working capital for coffee consolidation and trading, enabling them to aggregate 17 metric tons of green coffee beans (GCB).

It was also during this partnership that KCGI was introduced to the Peace and Equity Foundation (PEF).

Strengthening Ground for Growth

In 2018, PEF provided P1 million working capital to KCGI for trading, capacity building, and post-harvest facilities. The impact was immediate: KCGI’s consolidated volume grew from 17 to 20 metric tons of GCB within a year.

The partnership also provided relief to the partner farmers in the consolidation project. KCGI’s premium price is Php 5 higher than traders’ prices for coffee.

Now known as Keytodac Coffee Growers Agriculture Cooperative (KCGAC), the organization has become a key consolidator in the upland barangays in Lebak. It provides support to other people’s organizations in neighboring barangays.

Government agencies, such as the Department of Agriculture and the Department of Trade and Industry, have increased their support for KCGAC’s initiatives.

Today, the cooperative markets its own coffee brand, Kape On, which translates to “good coffee” in Manobo, a local indigenous language in Mindanao. The brand has gained traction in regional and national trade fairs and is now available in local markets across the province.

“I believe producing good coffee is not just about proper farm practices and maintenance. It’s also about unity, dedication, and partnership towards success,” Pascual said.

KCGAC has come a long way since its humble beginnings. They had grown to 150 members. The cooperative has consolidated 125 metric tons of coffee. It also strengthened its partnerships with government agencies, including the Department of Agriculture’s Philippine Rural Development Program, through which it secured farm machinery to enhance its production, processing, and marketing operations. These milestones reflect KCGAC’s continued growth, resilience, and commitment to empowering its members while contributing to the sustainable development of the local coffee industry.

PEF@25: Partnerships for Every Family

In 2026, the Peace and Equity Foundation marks its 25th anniversary, celebrating decades of partnership with communities and development institutions across the Philippines.

The anniversary campaign was launched on November 26, 2025 at Gallery MiraNila, bringing together civil society leaders, young entrepreneurs, and social enterprise practitioners.

The program featured talks by Prof. Julio Teehankee, Christine De Siree Jodloman, and PEF founder Dan Songco, followed by a panel discussion exploring key issues facing civil society today, including governance challenges, climate change, and leadership renewal.

The event also launched the Knowledge and Innovation Challenge for Change (KICK), a nationwide platform designed to surface innovative ideas that can enable sustainability and impact in development work.

The anniversary campaign will culminate in November 2026 with activities celebrating PEF’s partnerships and exploring new directions for advancing the Foundation’s mission.

Knowledge and Innovation Challenge launched to search for the next big development idea

The Peace and Equity Foundation (PEF) launched the Knowledge and Innovation Challenge for Change (KICK) to uncover real-world solutions and forward-looking ideas that inspire learning, replication, and action.

The KICK is a national competition open to Philippine-based registered organizations with innovative solutions to social challenges. It has two tracks: the Proven Track, for real-world, implemented solutions demonstrating measurable impact with potential for scale and replication, and the Emerging Track, for early-stage concepts, prototypes, or innovative ideas with clear potential for social impact, ready to be developed and tested on the ground.

The themes for KICK are based on the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals, including social entrepreneurship, youth-led initiatives, resilience, sustainability, and climate solutions.

Winners can receive up to P2,500,000 in grants to bring their testing, scaling, or replication plans to life. They will also be featured in print and video stories shared across KICK’s platforms and will gain access to key funders, development networks, and industry leaders through KICK-organized events, showcases, and referrals.

The KICK winners will be featured at the 25th anniversary culminating event on November 2026.

Treasurer's Report

Emmanuel S. De Dios
TREASURER

The year 2025 was a challenging time for the country. Nonetheless, the Peace and Equity Foundation (PEF) managed to navigate the period and shield its fund from loss and volatility through a defensive investment approach focused on income-generating assets.

Guided by the Finance and Investments Committee and the Board, PEF managed to preserve the endowment fund while supporting activities that contributed to the organization's objectives.

Portfolio Performance And Strategy

Investments yielded an overall return of 8.33%, contributing to the sustainability of the Foundation's endowment while supporting program operations. This return on investment (ROI) was lower than the previous year's 9.51% but still higher than the organization's blended benchmark ROI of 4.55%.

A key policy decision of the finance committee was to continue the tilt towards fixed-income and dollar-denominated assets, minimizing the portfolio's exposure to the volatility of the equity market and to peso depreciation. Our fixed-income portfolio continued to provide stable income, increasing by 20%.

Despite the bearish stock market, a prudent selection of companies for investment still allowed equity investments to realize gains of P12.27 million. Net income from all investments amounted to P164.16 million.

Additional investments were made to increase the US$-denominated share of the portfolio to 58%, still within the Board-approved limit. These were made to take advantage of higher returns and favorable tax treatment.

We remain focused on minimizing potential losses while ensuring consistent cash flow through interest earnings and dividends to sustain operational needs.

PEF's financial investments were allocated as follows:

- Seventy-three percent (73%) is allocated to fixed-income investments, with 58% or P1.088 billion in dollar-denominated investments, while 15% or P27 million are local fixed-income securities.
- Twenty-seven percent (27%) is invested in equities, which are generally high-quality, dividend-paying issues.

Cash was kept at a low level (P12 million in the portfolio), sufficient to meet liquidity requirements.

Inflation Provision and Fund Value Maintenance

The Foundation continued to accrue the 2026 inflation provision in advance, set at 2%, resulting in a cumulative provision of P844.56 million. This provision is intended to preserve, as far as possible, the value of the original endowment fund of P1.318 billion, established in 2001. It is also designed to serve as a financial buffer during periods of economic uncertainty and to support PEF programs and operations. As of December 31, 2025, the Unrestricted Fund Balance stood at P119.56 million.

Economic Trends

Even before the US-Israel war on Iran, the Philippine economy was already lagging in 2025.

The gross domestic product (GDP) grew by only 4.4%, the lowest since the COVID pandemic recession and well below the government’s target of 5.5-6-5%.

Low government investment spending, destructive typhoons, and the flood-control corruption scandal that sapped private investors’ confidence, heightened political uncertainty, and further lessened government spending were the main contributing factors to the sluggish growth.

These challenges are also reflected in the equities market, which fell 7.3 percent in the course of last year. Foreign sellers unloaded amid a depreciating peso and, especially, the poor GDP performance beginning in the third quarter. By the beginning of 2026, the effects of 2025’s dismal performance had already been felt. Unemployment as of January this year—before the Iran war—was 5.8%, and underemployment was a high 14%.

On the other hand, some macroeconomic indicators at least appeared benign. Inflation was rising slightly but was still within the BSP’s desired range of 2-4%. The BSP felt it could afford to reduce policy interest rates twice in 2025 and once in February this year to support flagging growth. As interest rates declined, the peso depreciated from P55 to P59 per dollar (about 7 percent), although it recovered somewhat by January 2026, partly owing to strong remittances towards year’s end.

Financial Position

Total assets stood at P2.4 billion. These consist of short-term assets of P1.54 billion and long-term assets of P856 million. Total liabilities closed at P113.95 million.

Despite the weak economic outlook in 2025, the endowment fund’s total fund increased by P63.09 million over the previous year, reaching a balance of P2.28 billion by year-end. The increase was attributed to the following key factors:

- Net investment income (including income from partners and other income): P132.09 million
- Unrealized gains on the market prices of common stocks: P12.27 million
- Fair value gains on investment properties: P13.24 million
- Net unrealized gains from capital appreciation of real estate property, adjusted for tax effects, remeasurement of defined benefit plan, and changes in fair value of investments: P1.05 million
- Foreign exchange gains: P17.61 million

Summary of Sources of Funds and Disbursements

The Foundation’s programs and operations were financed through the following sources:

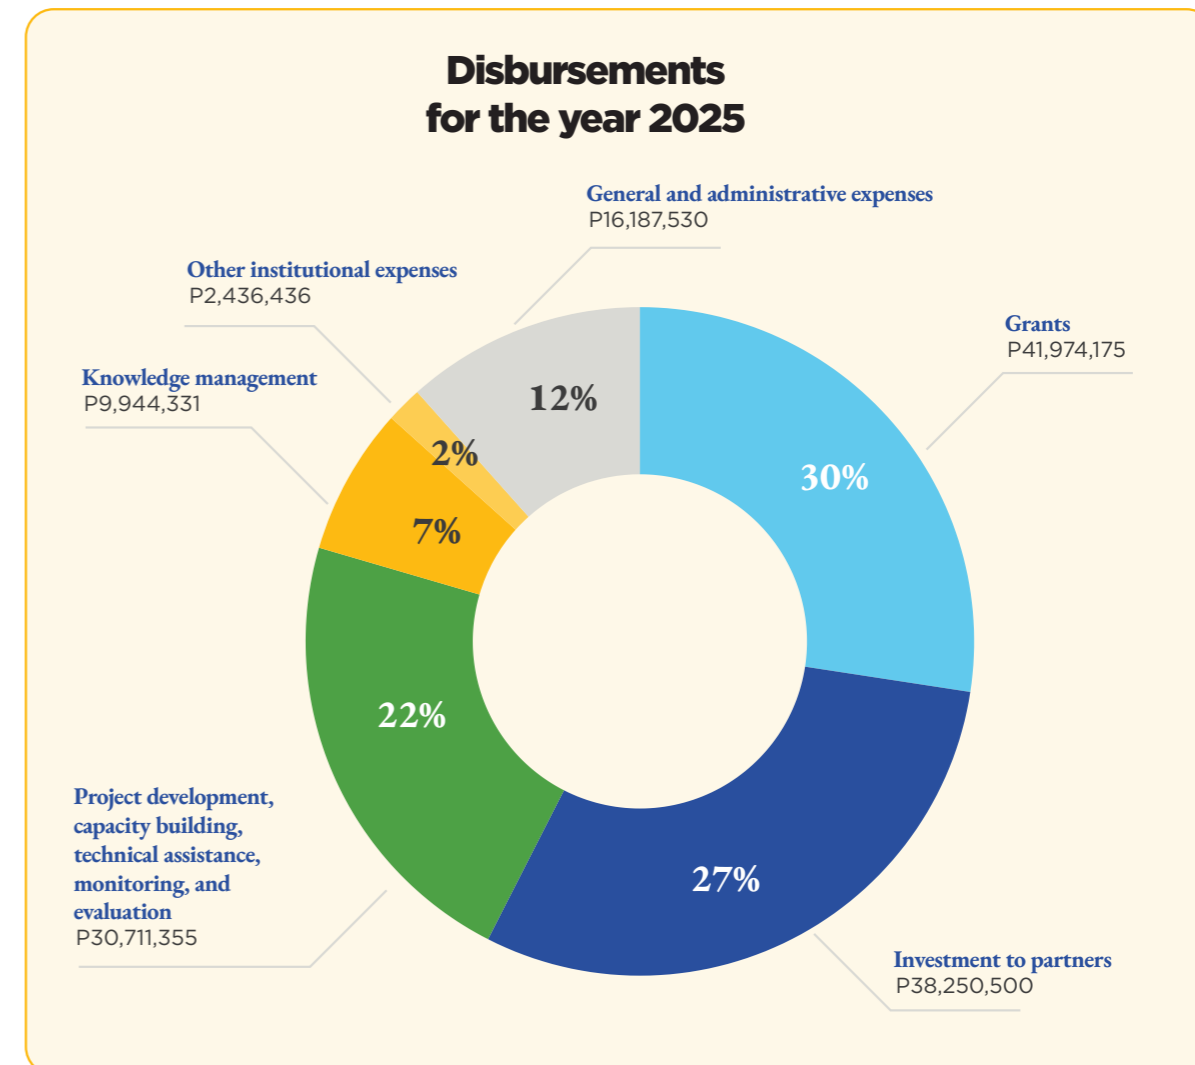

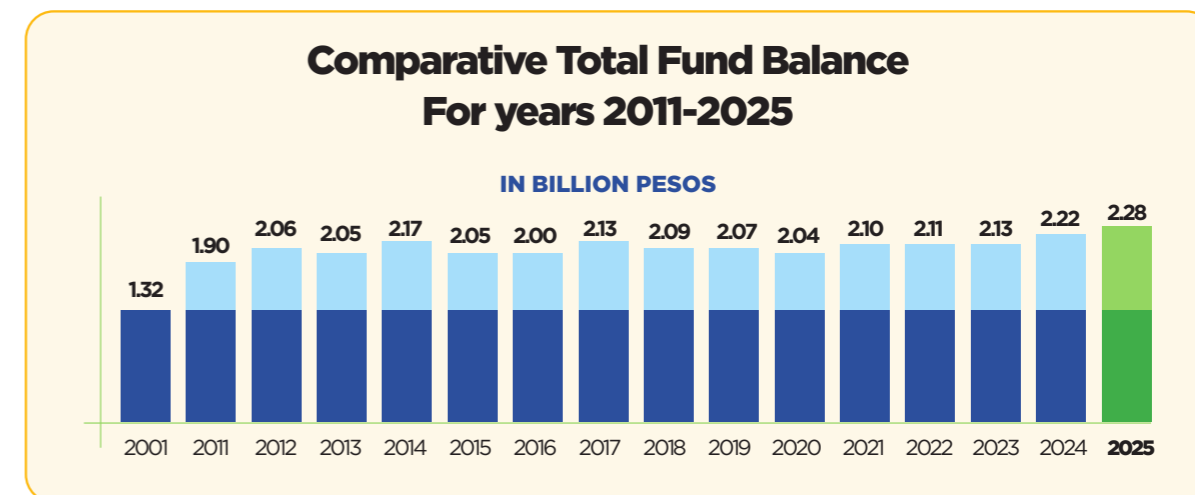

- Net realized income from investments in various financial instruments (stocks and bonds): P119.93 million
- Project reflows in the form of principal payments and interest on loans received from partner organizations: P57.49 million.
- Investments to partners (project loans): P38.25 million
- Grants extended to social enterprises (SE) and other general development programs: P41.97 million
- Project development, capacity building, technical assistance, monitoring, and evaluation: P30.71 million
- Knowledge management: P9.94 million
- Other institutional expenses: P2.44 million
- General and administrative expenses: P16.19 million

We also raised P58.92 million in leveraged funds, co-managed with our partners, bringing our total for the past three years to P103.74 million. These include additional capital funds for projects, working capital, and investments in capacity building and donor-funded projects.

Navigating a volatile future ahead

Given the added global geopolitical challenges stemming from the Middle East conflict, the Finance and Investments Committee aims to maintain its defensive posture by prioritizing stable, income-generating assets, preserving liquidity, and limiting exposure to more volatile investments until conditions become clearer.

The Board, and the Finance and Investments Committee remain committed to upholding PEF’s financial resilience, ensuring that resources are managed prudently and aligned with the Foundation’s long-term goals.

Independent Auditor's Report

Those charged with governance are responsible for overseeing the Parent Company's financial reporting process.

Auditor's Responsibilities for the Audit of the Parent Company Financial Statements

Our objectives are to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the parent company financial statements as a whole are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error, and to issue an auditor's report that includes our opinion. Reasonable assurance is a high level of assurance, but is not a guarantee that an audit conducted in accordance with PSAs will always detect a material misstatement when it exists. Misstatements can arise from fraud or error and are considered material if, individually or in the aggregate, they could reasonably be expected to influence the economic decisions of users taken on the basis of these parent company financial statements.

As part of an audit in accordance with PSAs, we exercise professional judgment and maintain professional skepticism throughout the audit. We also:

- Identify and assess the risks of material misstatement of the parent company financial statements, whether due to fraud or error, design and perform audit procedures responsive to those risks, and obtain audit evidence that is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our opinion. The risk of not detecting a material misstatement resulting from fraud is higher than for one resulting from error, as fraud may involve collusion, forgery, intentional omissions, misrepresentations, or the override of internal control.
- Obtain an understanding of internal control relevant to the audit in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of the Parent Company's internal control.
- Evaluate the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of accounting estimates and related disclosures made by management.
- Conclude on the appropriateness of management's use of the going concern basis of accounting and, based on the audit evidence obtained, whether a material uncertainty exists related to events or conditions that may cast significant doubt on the Parent Company's ability to continue as a going concern. If we conclude that a material uncertainty exists, we are required to draw attention in our auditor's report to the related disclosures in the parent company financial statements or, if such disclosures are inadequate, to modify our opinion. Our conclusions are based on the audit evidence obtained up to the date of our auditor's report. However, future events or conditions may cause the Parent Company to cease to continue as a going concern.
- Evaluate the overall presentation, structure and content of the parent company financial statements, including the disclosures, and whether the parent company financial statements represent the underlying transactions and events in a manner that achieves fair presentation.

We communicate with those charged with governance regarding, among other matters, the planned scope and timing of the audit and significant audit findings, including any significant deficiencies in internal control that we identify during our audit.
